

Visual Direction

Proposed film structure

Brief fact — The working title is Mise en Place, intended as a structural idea rather than necessarily an on-screen title. The film is organised into three movements. The supplied

Brief Objective & Outputs

Launch commercial

Brief fact — The project is a 60–90 second hero film for First Concepts' September 2026 launch, with 30s, 15s and 6s cut-downs for paid and social. The master is 16:9, with 9:16 and 1:1 cut-

Useful Tensions

The central tension

Brief fact — The film's proposed organising tension is order and chaos: disciplined enough to function, loose enough to surprise. The brief connects this to mise en place and the pressure of service; Brian

AI tools for creative professionals

Market Positioning

Official vendor positioning converges on generative AI as an end-to-end advertising operating layer—not merely an image or copy generator. The claimed workflow runs from brand ingestion and

Creative authorship and AI

Evidence scope

All supplied material is external reporting or interviews, not official agency or brand guidance. It captures a clear 2026 industry conversation, with one recurring caveat: these

Order, chaos and creative process

Context

The supplied sources support a creative-process frame built on the tension between order and chance: structure is not the opposite of experimentation, but the condition that gives experimentation

Project Context >

Use @ or the "+" button to mention blocks

From brief to concept, without losing direction

One workspace from brief to pitch. Your taste, held all the way.

Try it free

See plans

 Character

session starts

the room

Wi-Fi

yellowcurtains

AWARDS AND EVENTS IN ASSOCIATION WITH LBB EVENTS

First Concepts Back the Next Generation of Talent with Live AI Creative Challenge at Mother

Mother ECD Tom Bender, Uncharted founder Laura Jordan Bambach and Jellyfish VP of brand strategy Tom Roach to judge responses to a live Granola brand brief

Photo: LBB

THE ENCOUNTER

A face appears where the body should begin.
The wearer meets an image already wearing her.

